Objective of the Activity	 Preventing harmful alcohol consumption. Preventing people from becoming psychologically or physically dependant on alcohol. Reducing harm caused by alcohol abuse, such as public antisocial behaviour, domestic violence and traffic accidents.
Brief Description	There are 14 NSS volunteers selected in the general meeting of NSS Officer 15.02.2019 for survey against expenditure on Alcohol addiction. Alcohol is psychologically and physically addictive. Frequent drinking can lead to alcoholism. The government tries to prevent alcohol abuse and alcoholism through laws and public awareness. In addition to examining the effects of the price of alcohol on consumption, numerous economists have studied the impact of price on consequences of alcohol use and abuse. These consequences include fatal and nonfatal motor vehicle crashes and other injuries, liver cirrhosis mortality and other health consequences, and violence and other crime.
Outcomes/impact of the Activity	Survey concluded that excise tax increases tend to curtail alcohol consumption and heavy drinking by underage youths and young adults, more survey and research study on this important issue is necessary. Excessive alcohol consumption can have numerous adverse health effects; accordingly, reductions in alcohol consumption related to price increases might also reduce adverse health effects.
